Choices

Every day we make choices.

Some of these choices we will have made before and they will feel straightforward.

Other choices won't feel as easy and they may need more thought and care.

As we get older, we have more responsibility and we will need to make more choices.

My Choice

Take a few moments to think about the choices that you have made today.

Once you have done this, think about how you made those choices.

- Did you use information from previous experiences?
- Did you act impulsively?
- Did you do what everyone else did?
- Did you do something because you thought it was right?
- Did you get advice from someone else?

Consequences

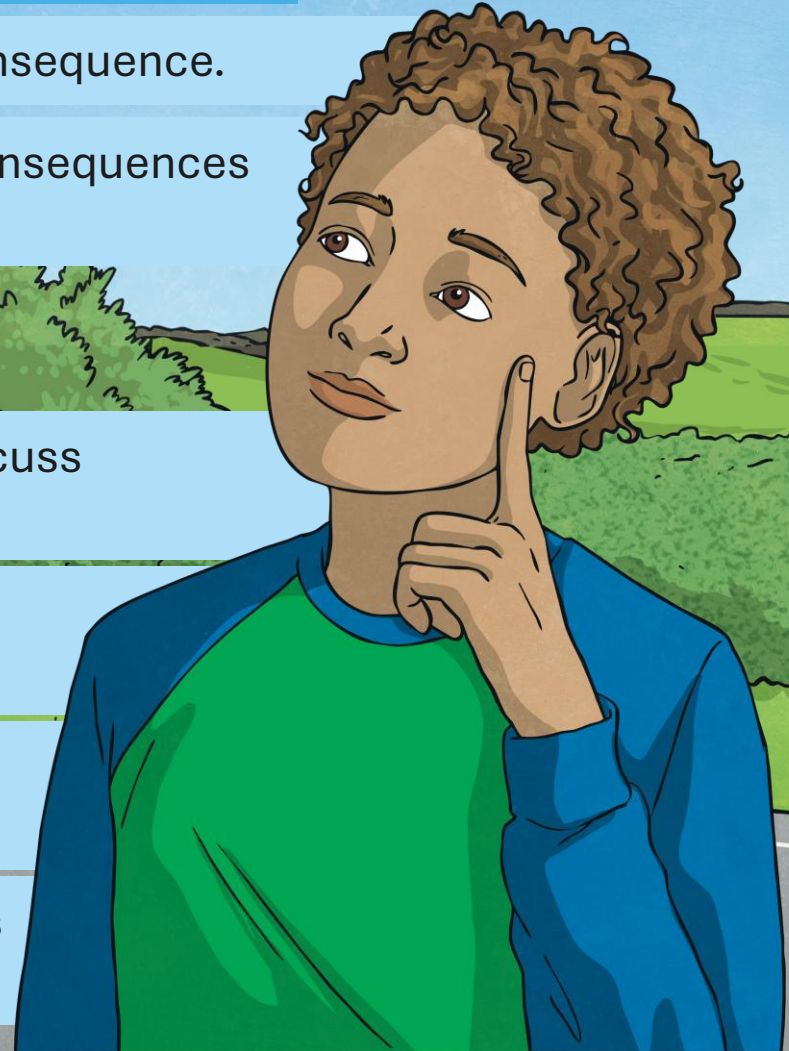

Every decision we make results in a consequence.

Sometimes we can predict what the consequences might be for our actions.

Please read this scenario and then discuss the following questions.

Damian asks to join a group of young people chatting on the playground.

- What choice does the child have in this situation?
- What are the possible consequences of the decision?

Choices and Consequences

We can evaluate the way we choose things by looking at the reactions and consequences we create for ourselves and others.

If we don't like what we are creating, we can change it by taking the time to think and react in a different way.

You can be the change that you want to see.

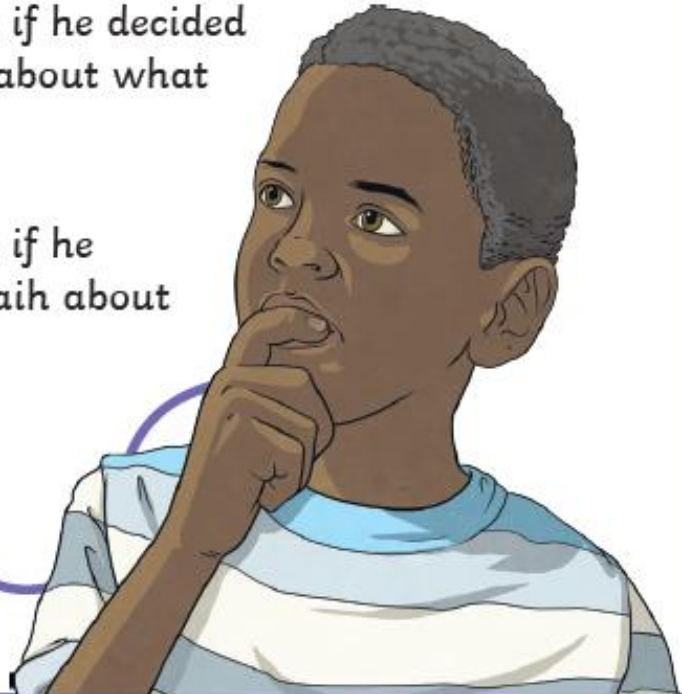

Jermaine sees Jamaih taking money from a friend's rucksack.

What might happen if Jermaine told an adult?

What might happen if he didn't tell an adult?

What might happen if he decided to speak to Jamaih about what he did?

What might happen if he didn't speak to Jamaih about what he did?

Mayceo shows Thiago a message from one of his friends that isn't kind.

What might happen if Mayceo told an adult?

What might happen if no one told an adult?

What might happen if Mayceo told Thiago how upset he was?

What might happen if Mayceo did nothing?
