

Incidental Observation Examples

* recognised and said the word Nottingham on the road sign as we were driving home.

* wrote a list of presents she would like for her birthday and sounded out each word as she wrote it down.

* counted the stairs when going to bed and correctly counted all 13.

* retold the story of the 3 Little Pigs to her grandparents.

* shared some sweets with her brother. She counted that she had 8 and he had 9 then said "You have 1 more than me".

* spotted the large clock in town and said "Look mummy, a circle."

* made pakoras for Eid and celebrated by wearing a pretty dress and having a party.

* MADE AND WROTE A BIRTHDAY CARD FOR HER UNCLE.

* played a phonics game on her daddy's iPod Touch.

* got her stage 2 swimming certificate this weekend.

* made and wrote a card for her Aunties birthday, cutting out shapes and sticking them on.

* had a great time at beavers last night and took part in Chinese New Year celebrations.

* went to the farm and helped feed the lambs. "They are small and fluffy, I liked feeding the lambs."

Incidental Observation Examples

* rode his bike for the first time this weekend without using stabilisers.

* was watching dad put together some chest of drawers and could name the tools that were being used – screwdriver, hammer and nails.

* did a somersault on the bars at the park this weekend.

* helped mummy make a cake and measured out the flour and sugar.

* said "I'm going to put my bottle in the recycle bin when it's empty so it can be used again."

* CAN NOW DO HIS COAT UP ALL BY HIMSELF.

* had a tea party with her dolls and counted out the correct amount of cups, plates and bowls.

* ate all his vegetables because he said "They will make me big and strong"

* planted sunflower seeds "look daddy, mine's taller than yours!"

* collected leaves from the garden and made an autumn picture by gluing the leaves down.

* watched the X Factor and then did her own show with her sister and her favourite CD's.

* played snakes and ladders with her brother and didn't get upset when he won. She said "well done for winning".

* helped set the table for dinner time and put out the correct number of places.